

About the authors/organizers

Armando Malheiro

Bachelor's degree in History from the Faculty of Arts at the University of Porto. Bachelor's degree in Philosophy from the Faculty of Philosophy in Braga at the Portuguese Catholic University. Master's degree in Library and Information Science from the Faculty of Arts at the University of Coimbra. Ph.D. in Contemporary Portuguese History from the University of Minho. Full Professor in the Department of Communication and Information Sciences, Faculty of Arts, University of Porto. With expertise in Information Science and Documentation, Archival Science, Museology, Communication, Information Literacy, and Digital Platforms, he is recognized in Brazil as a visiting professor, collaborating researcher, advisor, and ad hoc consultant on scientific projects and Stricto Sensu Graduate Programs at various universities.

Lattes: <http://lattes.cnpq.br/3383819339962955>

ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-0491-3758>

Email: malheiro@letras.up.pt

Carla Conti

Professor at the State University of Goiás, where she teaches in the undergraduate and master's programs in Education (PPGE/UEG Inhumas). She holds a Ph.D. in Public Policy, Strategies, and Development and a master's degree in Language and Linguistics, and completed a postdoctoral fellowship in the Department of Communication and Information Sciences at the Faculty of Arts of the University of Porto in Portugal. She is a member of the Research Group on Language Teacher Training (GEFOPLE/UEG/CNPq), the National Literacy Project: Language, Culture, Education, and Technology (USP), and the Literacy, Culture, Connectivity, and Education group (LECCE/UEG). She coordinates the Education and Artificial Intelligence Working Group of the Latin American Association for Educational Research (ALIE). She is dedicated to studies and research on digital culture and educational policies, with an emphasis on issues related to digital technologies, artificial intelligence, and human rights education.

Lattes <https://lattes.cnpq.br/5357556016311932>
 ORCID <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-7217-1664>
 Email: carla.freitas@ueg.br

Daniella Corcioli

Ph.D. in Linguistic Studies from ILEEL-UFU, Adjunct Professor in the Department of Language and Literature at the Federal University of Tocantins, and coordinator of the CECLLA Program – Center for Continuing Studies in Language, Literature, Linguistics, and the Arts – and the CECLLA Relinter Project. Co-leader of the CNPQ group – Digital Technologies and Multimodality in Language and Literature Teaching and Learning, and member of the following CNPQ groups: Group for Critical and Advanced Studies in Language (GECAL) at UNB and Language and Identity: Pragmatic Approaches. Research interests: Critical and Decolonial Language Education, Translanguaging, Internationalization, Critical Teacher Education, Language and Identity, Pragmatics, and Performativity Studies. Affiliation: Federal University of Tocantins – Porto Nacional Campus.

Lattes: <http://lattes.cnpq.br/1889002395462308>
 ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-2071-0531>
 Email: danicorcioli@mail.uft.edu.br

Ivonete Bueno

She holds a bachelor's degree in Language and Literature from the State University of Paraíba (UEPB). She earned a master's degree in Language Studies and Applied Linguistics from the Federal University of Rio Grande do Norte (UFRN) and a Ph.D. from the Graduate Program in Language Studies at the Federal University of Rio Grande do Norte. She completed a postdoctoral fellowship in modern foreign languages and relations at the University of São Paulo (USP). She participated in the Global Index of English Proficiency and International Relations Project in Latin America and North America. Currently, she serves as an administrative advisor at the Office of External Relations (AREX) at the State University of Goiás (UEG). She has experience in the field of Language and Literature, with an emphasis on Modern Foreign Languages, working primarily in the following areas: teaching in English, Spanish, and Portuguese; teacher training; linguistics; bilingualism; biliteracy; international academic mobility; international relations; interpreting; translation; and text editing in Portuguese, Spanish, and English.

Lattes: <http://lattes.cnpq.br/5947332549215766>
 ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-1082-7605>
 Email: ivoneteb@live.com

Kleber Silva

Professor in the Graduate Program in Linguistics and International Relations at the University of Brasília. Postdoctoral fellow in: Applied Linguistics (UNICAMP); Applied Linguistics and Language Studies (PUC-SP); Linguistics (UFSC); Applied Linguistics (Pennsylvania State University, USA); Linguistic Studies (UFMG); Humanities, Rights, and Other Legitimacies (USP); Language Teaching (University of Geneva, Switzerland); Multilingual Education and Literacy (University of Witwatersrand, South Africa). Ph.D. in Linguistic Studies (São Paulo State University). Master's degree in Applied Linguistics (UNICAMP). Bachelor's degree in English Language (Federal University of Ouro Preto). His research interests intersect with studies of language, culture, language education, and technology. He is a CNPq Research Productivity Fellow and a researcher at Stanford University/USA and Wits University/South Africa.

Lattes: <http://lattes.cnpq.br/5411877784984041>
 ORCID: <https://orcid.org/000-0002-7815-7767>
 E-mail: kleberunicamp@yahoo.com.br

Lídia Oliveira

Professor in the Department of Communication and Art (University of Aveiro). Researcher at DigiMedia, where she coordinates the Digital Media Observatory and the Digital Media & Society research group; Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of Digital Media & Interaction. Holds a bachelor's degree in Philosophy and Psychology (University of Coimbra), a master's degree in Educational Technology (University of Aveiro), in partnership with the Universities of Valenciennes, France, and Mons, Belgium, and a Ph.D. in Communication Sciences and Technologies (University of Aveiro). She completed her postdoctoral research at the Center for Social Studies (University of Coimbra). Her research explores the implications of information and communication technologies on the cognitive and social routines of individuals, groups, and organizations, with a focus on cyberculture studies. She teaches in the undergraduate program in Multimedia and Communication Technologies, in the Master's programs in Multimedia Communication and in Reading Promotion and School Libraries, and in the doctoral programs in New Media and in Multimedia and Education.

Lattes: <http://lattes.cnpq.br/1680105835487679>
 ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-3278-0326>
 Email: lidia@ua.pt

Nilceia Bueno

Portuguese and English teacher in public schools for 35 years. PhD in Language Studies (UEL/CAPES). Postdoctoral researcher in Linguistics at the University of Brasília under the supervision of Prof. Dr. Kleber Aparecido da Silva. Continued training at Greystone College, Canada. Member of the Group for Critical and Advanced Studies in Language (GECAL – UnB/CNPq). Author of the book Critical Language Studies and Language Teacher Education: Theoretical-Methodological Contributions (2015) and of several book chapters. Researcher in the area of language teacher education, mainly grounded in Critical Discourse Analysis and Expansive Learning Theory, with a focus on the Change Laboratory and Transformative Agency.

Lattes: <http://lattes.cnpq.br/1967986096537954>
 ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0009-0007-8173-1911>
 Email: oliveira.nilceiabueno@gmail.com

Olira Saraiva

Professor in the Interdisciplinary Graduate Program in Education, Language, and Technologies at the State University of Goiás (PPG-IELT/UEG). Postdoctoral fellow in International Relations (UnB). Postdoctoral fellow in Communication and Art at the University of Aveiro (Portugal). Postdoctoral researcher at the Department of Communication and Information Sciences (University of Porto/Portugal). Postdoctoral researcher in Cultural Studies (UFRJ). Ph.D. in Art and Visual Culture (UFG). Master's degree in Education (PUC-Goiás). Bachelor's degree in Language and Literature (UEG). Leader of the Literacy, Culture, Connectivity, and Education Research Group (LECCE/CNPq). Conducts research in Digital Culture, Artificial Intelligence, Literacy, and the Arts.

Lattes: <http://lattes.cnpq.br/8866061054957829>

ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-2371-3030>

Email: olira.rodriques@ueg.br

Rosana Nunes

Rosana Nunes

Ph.D. in Portuguese Language from the Pontifical Catholic University (PUC/SP). Postdoctoral fellow in Education at the University of Campinas (UNICAMP/SP). Postdoctoral fellow in Critical Applied Linguistics at the University of Brasília (UnB) under the supervision of Prof. Dr. Kleber Aparecido da Silva. Postdoctoral researcher in the International Relations Program at the University of Brasília, conducting research linked to Line 2 “Global Interconnections, Asymmetries, and Conflicts (IGAC),” under the supervision of Prof. Dr. Kleber Aparecido da Silva. She is a full-time faculty member at the Votorantim State College of Technology (RJI). She is a member of the Advanced Language Studies Group (GECAL).

Lattes: <https://lattes.cnpq.br/4301787941949295>

ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-1800-3296>

Email: rosananunes03@gmail.com

Tamara Rosa

Professor at the Federal Institute of Farroupilha (IFFar) in Santo Augusto, Rio Grande do Sul. Bachelor's degree in Language and Literature from UNICRUZ, specialist in Interdisciplinarity (FACIPAL), Master's and Ph.D. in Science Education (UNIJUÍ) with a sandwich Ph.D. at TSU (Russia), postdoctoral fellow in Linguistics (UnB), and Capes fellow in Information Technology in Education (UFRGS). Teaches Portuguese and English in extension and graduate courses. She is a member of the GECAL Steering Committee. Her research focuses on language policies, the internationalization of education, artificial intelligence, and teacher training in the field of applied linguistics.

Lattes: <http://lattes.cnpq.br/1053977854560617>

ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-3359-3909>

Email: tamara.rosa@iffarroupilha.edu.br